

Backpack Assembly

Food

These can take the form of square sandwiches or even bulky items such as bags of candy or fruit. These are essential in keeping up your energy levels through the day.

Drinks

Hydration! Hydration! Hydration! Liquid is the key to staying hydrated, which helps with learning and staying alive. However, it is risky to include liquid in your pack because if spills, you'll be in trouble, especially if you have a laptop in there.

Text Books

These aren't required everyday, but lugging around the weight will help burn off useless calories and help develop you a mighty study hump. Depending on your subject load you could have that sexy Quasimodo look by the end of this semester.

Laptop

The cornerstone of any university students' arsenal. Your laptop is essential for remaining on Facebook while at lectures and in cafes. If people don't see you writing, how will they ever know you do? I'm such a titanic hypocrite writing this, as I am in a café with my mocha. Viva la self loathing!

Tissues

Always have tissues handy because bath towels are just too cumbersome. Furthermore, seeing as the likelihood of your gallivanting around the universe is unlikely, tissues will more than suffice. Anyone who hasn't read The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Universe will not get this blurb at all.

Unmentionables

You know what these various items of loathing are. Condoms, medicinal tablets, tampons, make-up, etc, etc. The only limit to the unmentionables is pack space.

Umbrella

It's always good to be prepared. The trick is to buy the right sized umbrella that can fit anywhere. Most can even clip onto the outside of your pack.

Laptop Bag

Flatness is the key to the success of your laptop bag. Flat foods, flat books, flat laptop. Umbrellas can be clipped on the side as can drinks to protect your laptop. If you plan your bag daily, you'll be a resounding success in the eyes of your peers.

Backpack

Despite being a bit boring and uninspired, you can fit more than anyone else in your bag. Furthermore, you have still retained the ability to run, which means you can now escape quickly from people making fun of your bag. Also, unlike the other bags, you can fit pets in your backpack and take them on an excursion to uni for the day!

Purse

As with all ladies' fashion, the secret is fashion sense. Gucci, Prada, Adidas or Pentium, it doesn't matter as long as you accessories correctly. The bag can be a microcosm representation of your ability to gauge social situations correctly and adaptation to match them. Everyday is a challenge just waiting to be met! Take your purse, pack it right and seize the world!

Man Purse

The versatility is only counteracted by the fact that you're essentially holding a big purse. But then again, you can claim that you're trying to abolish typically established gender roles in society, which is exactly what a university student would say.
